

Creighton University fosters an environment which promotes respect and service to all peoples, values diversity, and upholds the ideals of a Jesuit education. To this means, the Harper Center for Student Life and Learning links the educational process with social encounter and wellness of body.

The Harper Center for Student Life and Learning provides vital services, conveniences, and amenities which are used in daily campus life to support the mission of the University. It acts as the conference center for the campus and greater Omaha community. In doing so, it seeks to effectively manage its facilities and services while being responsive to the changing needs of the campus population.
